Finance Director

The Scottish Surfing Federation, the journey so far

Formed in 1975, the Scottish Surfing Federation (SSF) is the governing body for the sport of surfing in Scotland and its respective disciplines (bodysurf, bodyboard, shortboard, longboard, SUP, para surfing). The SSF is recognised by SportScotland the European Surfing Federation (ESF) and the International Surfing Association (ISA).

Over the last decade the SSF has transformed the sport in Scotland supporting the regional surf clubs, surf schools, surf businesses and uniting the Scottish surfing community. It supports, organises and creates a number of high profile events across Scotland supporting grassroots participation through to delivering a high performance pathways.

In 2016 the sport of Surfing entered the Olympics. In preparation the Scottish Surfing Federation along with its fellow home nations founded British Surfing in 2019, supported by UKsport, to develop the elite level and raise the standard of British Surfing through the Olympic movement. British Surfing are now in receipt of 1.35MM GBP from UKsport and have a working executive with an aspiration to have British athletes olympic podium ready by 2032.

In 2022 the SSF transitioned from a predominately volunteer led organisation towards having its first paid staff. Today it currently works a mixed staffing/ volunteer model. Further to this over the last decade Wavepool technology has progressed significantly. The Lost Shore Resort, a 56 million GBP development, is an inland wave facility which is currently being built within 3 miles of Edinburgh International Airport. It is the largest sporting project in Scotland since the development of the Commonwealth arena and Chris Hoy Stadium in 2012 and now due to open in 2024.

Scottish Surfing Federation, the onward Journey

With surfing now an Olympic sport which is rapidly growing and Scotland's first inland surfing destination in the pipeline, there has never been a more exciting time to be involved in Scottish surfing.

Regionally the SSF has an ever increasing number of events, supporting safe participation, raising performance and leading the way with a wide range of diversity, equality and inclusion programmes.

The Paris 2024 Olympics surfing event will be held in Tahiti and with the 2028 and 2032 Olympics planned for LA and Brisbane it is foreseen that surfing will grow in prominence at the games. Further to this an application has been submitted to the International Olympic Committee for the inclusion of Surfing at the Paralympics in 2028 which the ISA is anticipated to hear feedback on by the end of 2023.

The Lost Shore Surf Resort is due to open in 2024 and will be the best inland wave facility in Northern Europe upon opening it will undoubtedly be transformational for the sport in Scotland. As well as helping raise performance and safe participation, it is also recognised that the Lost Shore Resort will offer a fantastic environment for positive social change.
